EMPLOYMENT HISTORY

Year Of Exprience 10

Background	As a computer lab support engineer and IT technician, my role involves a mix of technical troubleshooting, user support, and system maintenance. I excel at diagnosing hardware and software issues, configuring networks, and ensuring that all equipment runs smoothly. My skills in customer service are crucial, as I often assist users with a range of technical problems, guiding them through solutions and providing training when needed. Currently, I'm focused on optimizing lab environments, which includes setting up new machines, updating software, and ensuring that all security protocols are in place. I also collaborate with other IT staff to implement improvements and streamline processes, which enhances overall lab efficiency. Continuous learning is a big part of my job, as technology evolves rapidly, so I stay updated on the latest tools and trends in IT.
