Background	I am Jennifer, a 28 year old female with a burning passion for cooking. Culinary art is a momentous part of my life. When I was around the age of 8 I was living with both my mom and dad. I was always in the kitchen helping my mom cook dinner. My family is a Ghanaian so my mother use to cook Ghanaian local food every single day but i wanted to learn more than that I wanted to learn about all cultures of the world not just stuck in one country. At age 12 i started cooking for my family. My mother was very pleased with what i can and what i learned. This is when I began to explore other cuisines. There was never any hesitation when it came to pursuing what I loved to do. After completing my basic education, I went to study home economics in high school to start with the basic culinary skills for my future career. After completion, I got admission to one of the culinary schools in the country to study kitchen skills with hospitality management certification. I enjoyed it. I developed a strong passion for culinary arts. I am passionate about it because it excites me, inspires me, and encourages me to go further. The culinary arts is a competitive field and I love the thrill of competition. In my previous roles as a cook, I played a pivotal role in the development and execution of the menu. Collaborating closely with the Head Chef, I contributed to the creation of innovative dishes that combined traditional flavours with culinary trends. I take pride in my ability to balance creativity with practicality, ensuring that each dish not only tantalizes the taste buds but also meets the highest standards of presentation. One aspect of my culinary journey is my love for travel. It is my dream and goals to travel to different countries and learn their cuisines as it will broadened my perspective and infused my cooking skills. In conclusion, I am a passionate and dedicated cook who brings a combination of technical expertise, creativity, and a commitment to excellence. I am eager to contribute my skills and vision to your esteemed establishment, and I look forward to the opportunity to collaborate with a team of like-minded individuals who share my passion for culinary excellence.
